United Church Funds — Investment Strategy Updates

Q&A with Chief Investment Strategist Dave Klassen, CFA

- On which economic metrics or datapoints is your team keeping a close eye right now to gauge the economic realities that will guide markets moving forward?
- In the recent past, how has your team used short-term volatility to reposition the portfolio at better valuations, and as we move forward into 2021, what are your thoughts on valuations for stocks, both in the U.S. and overseas?
- Why is it important to work with a diversified group of outside managers in a platform of funds like UCF? Can you speak to the benefit to our clients of adding a couple of our newer managers namely Blackrock in Small Cap Equity and, more recently, Nuveen in the Fixed Income Fund?

Poll Question

Market and Fund Updates — Key Themes

- Markets versus the Economy: Economy rebounded strongly from its low, although the speed of recovery going forward will be predicated on the virus and vaccine developments and further policy supports. The unprecedented fiscal and monetary stimulus packages around the globe have kept markets strong for now.
- Markets Remain Volatile: Global markets ended the quarter positive despite declines in September. Emerging markets led, followed by the U.S. Investors ended the quarter with concerns regarding lofty valuations (U.S. big tech), delays in a stimulus package and the upcoming U.S. elections.
- Dynamic Allocations: We continue to be vigilant about increased risks and potential opportunities from market volatility. During the quarter, we reduced equity weights to be closer to neutral to lock-in gains and given increased uncertainty.
- Macro Risks: Beyond the resurgence of the pandemic, other macro risks exist. These include the U.S. Presidential election, U.S.-China trade tensions and social and political unrest.
- Long-Term Strategy: We continue to focus on long-term investment results, balancing the need for liquidity and returns through asset allocation decisions and manager selection.

Strategy and Positioning — Markets Versus The Economy

Industries hard-hit by COVID-19 impacts continued to improve in Q3 but may face increased pressure as the winter approaches with more closures/restrictions. Home sales continue to rebound.

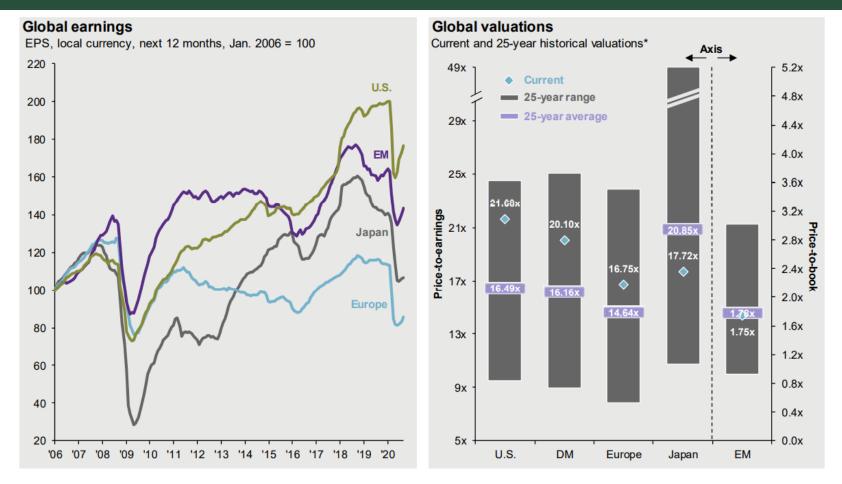

Strategy and Positioning — Consumer Finances

Despite unemployment highs, the consumer base is relatively healthy according to assets vs liabilities within the consumer balance sheet.

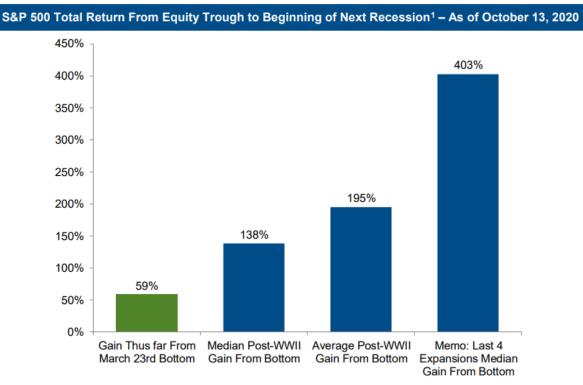

Strategy and Positioning —International Equity Earnings and Valuations

- Concentration within the S&P 500 (Big Tech) drove market volatility in September. Valuations remain lofty, but earnings provide support.
- There may be greater upside potential for international markets.

Strategy and Positioning — Equities Likely to Deliver Attractive Returns During Next Expansion

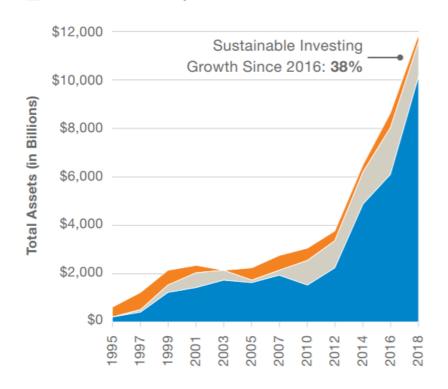

- While the election is likely to be a source of market volatility, we do not expect it to be disruptive enough to derail the economic recovery. In fact, fiscal spending under either administration will likely support it.
- We expect a multiple-year economic expansion that supports mid-single digit annualized equity returns that are superior to cash and bonds.
- > While the 59% rally from this year's March low has been rapid, its magnitude still provides ample upside based on past economic expansions.

Responsible Investing — Sustainable Investing Growth
