

BUILDING A MORE JUST FUTURE

As we honor Juneteenth — a celebration of freedom and the resilience of Black communities — United Church Funds (UCF) reaffirms its resolute commitment to racial equity. In a time when conversations about diversity and equity are growing quieter, UCF remains steadfast in its pursuit of equity and justice through intentional leadership and partnerships. This infographic* illustrates how that commitment is embodied across our board, staff and investment manager selection.

UCF also continues to co-file shareholder resolutions calling for greater transparency in workplace equity efforts. As a co-signatory of the Racial Justice Investing Investor Solidarity Statement, we acknowledge that lasting change arises from sustained action, not isolated moments.

Long-term Commitment to Diversity

UCF's Investor Policy Statement lays out these core beliefs:

1. We believe that investors hold the power to dismantle systems of patriarchy and racism.
2. We believe that diverse teams build stronger businesses, make better decisions and can drive outsized returns.
